“What is support raising like?”

Good question! :) For the past eight months, I have been looking to partner with churches and individuals who desire to see college students' lives transformed by the gospel to be sent out into all the world. I am grateful for your joy, encouragement and prayer at this time!

A key starting point for me is to consider my calling. Recently I have come up with a mission statement: By grace, I am motivated to help students, here and across the world, discover the freedom of the gospel and to equip them to walk with God for a lifetime, helping them identify and develop their passions, gifts and God-given desires along the way. So I am committed to giving some of the strongest and most productive years of my life to see this generation's next leaders know God, be known by him and glorify him as Lord of their extremely promising lives.

Currently, I am seeking true partners in the ministry - but know I am limited in my personal circle of friends. So I'll take any opportunity I get to share about the three years I have spent! I am available to speak and share of my experiences on campus and around the world as I also seek to raise enough prayer and financial support to be able to return to campus 100% funded & equipped.

I'll be in touch! Feel free to also! - steph.

prayerwalking through SF as they go! -- thanks, raymond gao.

➔ SF Spring Break Trip

UC Davis is my alma mater, so I was so excited to see old friends as they partnered with UC Irvine & UC Riverside students to love this great city, San Francisco, where it is estimated that only 5% have a relationship with Jesus Christ. For four days, they partnered with a local church and their college group to share their faith in busy downtown Union Square as well as nearby City College of San Francisco. As one student noted, "I am very thankful I got to be a part of starting a movement on campus... I believe it is a very rare opportunity." By faith our students are learning to be prayer warriors and bold witnesses wherever they go!

AT CCSF (SF, OCEAN CAMPUS): Half of our student group at City College. They were able to surface one potential ministry student leader, four students with strong campus connections and lead one girl to Christ!

MEET EWAN! (LONG BEACH): My team directors, Adam and Jaci Anderson, welcomed their first child on March 31st (9 lb 8 oz!!). I got to meet him in his second week of life!

COMMIT MAGAZINE (BAY AREA): A ministry of my 20s group here in the Peninsula, I wrote an article for the spring 2010 issue! Check out <http://www.cpc20s.com/commit>.
